About the seminar

This seminar includes two parts. The first part is on the experiences and current status on the development of Hong Kong as an international shipping center, the free-port development in Mainland China, and the role of Hong Kong as well as the Hong Kong Shipowners Association.

The second part of seminar will be conducted by Mr Jianjun Wang, who will donate the book “Shipping Market Trend” to our Centre, and introduce the content of the book. The book explains how to predict shipping market trend using historical data. It developed simple and easy to understand metrics for the judgements of the market trends. It covers major markets including drybulk ship, tanker and containerships.
